HOTEL PETER & PAUL, NEW ORLEANS

Four buildings spread across a 19th-century site – a church, rectory, schoolhouse and convent – have been reborn as Hotel Peter & Paul. A four-year project has resulted in 71 rooms spread throughout. The style varies between spaces but is sensitive to the hotel's history: rooms in the convent, exuding a pale white colour palette, might boast clawfoot tubs while the school house borrows European aesthetic influences. The surrounding Marigny neighborhood, just off the Mississippi river, is known for colorful Creole cottages, live music and chilled-out bars.
